Course Description:

AIR-6.0 is a strong proponent of mentoring as a career development tool. Speed mentoring is particularly valuable because it allows employees to get “real-time” advice in a series of short conversations with experts and other mentors. These short conversations can focus participants’ attention on key areas of discussion or interest and also provide the mentee a variety of viewpoints to consider. Additionally, this format allows for quick-hit information from another professional to help solve a pressing need and helps to facilitate networking. Other benefits include:

- Mentees get to practice “breaking the ice” with Senior Leaders
- Provides targeted networking with possible prospect of finding a potential mentor
- Increases communication throughout NAVAIR about developmental opportunities and individual professional strategies
- Helps build a culture that fosters meaningful partnerships and connections among interested employees in order to increase knowledge, skills and job satisfaction

Over the course of two hours you will rotate from one table to another meeting various senior leaders.

It is recommended you come prepared with some questions so that you can use them to initiate the conversation with the mentors. Those questions can vary greatly depending on your current position; however, consider asking advice on how to handle difficult situations you encounter in the workplace or what steps you might take to become more competitive for a position you aspire to. We sincerely hope you find this event beneficial to you and your career. At the conclusion of the event and before leaving, you will be asked to complete the “Speed Mentoring Evaluation Form” and return it to the event coordinators. The comments you provide will help us improve future events. Thank you for taking the time to participate in the event and providing us with your feedback!!
