

PMA-205 CBTSI team wins AIR-1.0 Spotlight Award

The Computer Based Training Systems Initiative, Integrated Product Team, based in Keyport, Washington, from PMA-205. (U.S. Navy photo)

Naval Air Systems Command, Patuxent River, Md. — Gary Kurtz, NAVAIR assistant commander for acquisition, recognized the winners of the AIR-1.0 Spotlight Awards during an annual all-hands meeting Feb. 3 at the Center Stage Theater. The November winner was the Computer Based Training Systems Initiative, Integrated Product Team, based in Keyport, Washington, from PMA-205. The team identified a more efficient means to produce common access card enablement, which was delivered ahead of schedule and at a $140,000 lower cost.